

In today's CC, we will try to join segregated data from JSON Placeholder API in our server and send back the joined data to the client.

Write the following route with the specification given.

GET

/postWithComment

This route should give me an array of post objects having a comment property on it. The comment property needs to be an array of comments object for that particular post.

Read up on the documentation/guide of JSON Placeholder API on getting the posts and comments separately.

Look at the image below for more clarity

Response from /posts from the JSON Placeholder

Notice that the comments of post with id as 1 is now inside the comment property as an array for the same.
